Peter started his Professional Golf Career at Kilspindie Golf Club from where he played regularly on the PGA Tartan Tour. After moving to China, he worked at some of Asia's best Golf Academies in Beijing, Shanghai and Shenzhen whilst at the same time playing in China PGA events. When there, he designed and delivered coaching programs for all levels of golfers both privately and for companies including HSBC and Buick.

He believes that golf can be played to a good standard by anyone who has the right coaching, mindset and is prepared to practise. Peter is strongly of the opinion that in golf there are many different ways to swing the club, however, achieving a strong impact position from the swing is vital to maximizing distance and consistency. To this end, Peter sees power as a huge part of modern golf and works with power sources including; coil, transition, hands/arms and ground forces to increase distance and accuracy.
